

The Psychobiological Dimension of Structural Integration: Managing it in our practice - integrating it into our work

Dates: September 2-4, 2010

Location: Kailua-Kona, HI

Instructor: Pedro Prado

Fees: $375.00

Registration: Margaret Eyles at margareteyles@hawaii.rr.com or 808-326-1569 or 808-937-9894

Credits: This course is approved for 21 Category I IASI Credits and 3 RISI Manipulation credits

Course Description: In this workshop we will explore the nature of the Psychobiological Dimension in both theoretical and practical terms. Students will learn to recognize its manifestations and practice working with it, consciously and responsibly, in the Rolfing context. CLASS FLYER

Although the Psychobiological Dimension is omnipresent in Rolfing®, it is often left in the shadows. Even when acknowledged, it is poorly understood. However, to take our work to the highest level of proficiency - and to help our clients achieve optimal integration - we must incorporate this dimension. We must perceive, understand and address it.

Instructor Biography: Pedro Prado, PhD, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, is a member of the Advanced and Movement Faculties of the Rolf Institute®, and is a Somatic Experiencing Instructor for the Foundation of Human Enrichment. He is a clinical psychologist and a former professor of Somatic Psychology. Currently, he is exploring the psychobiological dimension of SI in his practice, teaching and research.